A banner may be any shape, though the total sign face calculation must use the maximum width and height dimensions. A flag, as defined herein, is not a banner. A banner must not be constructed of cardboard, foam board, poster board, paper, or similar non-durable or non-flexible materials.

Billboard sign. Any sign larger than one hundred square feet that:

- (a) has space available or in use by an entity that does not conduct any activity other than providing the sign on the land where the sign is located, or

A flag, as defined herein, is not a decorative pole banner.

Depth, sign face. For a sign attached to a building or wall, the sign face depth is measured from the outermost bottom edge of the structure surrounding the sign face to the outermost top edge of the structure surrounding the sign face.

Height, freestanding sign. For a freestanding sign not attached to a building or wall, the height is measured from the average finished grade of the property at the base of the sign to the outermost top edge of the structure surrounding the sign face. Where decorative columns wider than 6 inches are used on both sides of the sign face, the columns are excluded from the height measurement. Sec. 24-210A General provisions.

Except as otherwise specifically provided in this article, the following general provisions apply in all zones and rights of way:

(a) Area computation for lot requirements:

- (1) Unless otherwise specified in this article, where a regulation of this article includes a lot area requirement, the term “lot” consists of lots of record and any lot, parcel, or outlot included on a recorded subdivision plat.
- (2) Where a regulation of this article includes a lot area requirement, the entire area specified is required, unless the phrase “or portion thereof” follows the requirement. For example, if the regulation requires three (3) acres of lot area per sign and the subject lot is only two (2) acres, no sign is allowed.
- (3) Where a regulation of this article includes a lot area requirement and includes the phrase “or portion thereof,” any fraction of the lot area satisfies the requirement. For example, if the regulation requires three (3) acres of lot area or portion thereof per sign and the subject lot is four (4) acres in size, two (2) signs are allowed, one for the three full acres and one for the remaining partial area (one acre) of the next three full acres.

(b) Area computation for signs:

- (1) The area of a sign includes the entire face of the sign, plus any supporting backboard or raceway, plus any wall work incidental to its decoration, and includes the space between letters, figures and designs.
- (2) The area of a sign is calculated by multiplying the sign face length by the sign face depth.

- (3) All sides of a sign that are visible from any one vantage point must be measured in determining the area of a sign.
- a. If the two (2) sides of the sign are back-to-back or separated by an angle of forty-five (45) degrees or less, only one side of the sign is used for the area calculation, but where the two (2) sides of such a sign are not equal in size, the larger side must be used for the total area calculation. An example of this type of sign is a double-face sign.

- (a) Minor waiver.

Where allowed by other provisions of this article, the approving body for a sign may grant a minor waiver to approve a sign that deviates from the regulatory requirements of this Article, upon a finding that:

- (1) Such deviation will not have an adverse impact on the health, safety, and general welfare of the City, its residents and businesses, the general public, and the surrounding properties; and
- (2) Such deviation will not be a hazard to traffic, vehicles, or pedestrians; and
- (3) Such deviation is necessary due to location, obstructions, or other factors that adversely impact the visibility of the sign; and
- (4) Such deviation is in conformance with the purposes of this Article.

(b) Major waiver.

Where a literal application of this ordinance, due to special circumstances, would result in an unusual hardship in an individual case, the planning commission may grant a major waiver to approve a sign that deviates from the regulatory requirements of this article, upon a finding that:

- (1) The granting of such a major waiver satisfies the required findings for a minor waiver under Section 24-213(a); and
- (2) There exist exceptional conditions pertaining to the property where the sign is to be located as a result of its size, shape, visibility, or topography, which are not applicable to other lands or structures in the area; and
- (3) The applicant would be deprived of rights that are commonly enjoyed by others similarly situated; and
- (4) Granting the major waiver would not confer on the applicant any significant privileges that are denied to others similarly situated; and
- (5) Neither the special circumstances nor unusual hardship is the result of action by the applicant; and
- (6) The requested major waiver is the minimum deviation necessary to allow the applicant to enjoy the rights commonly enjoyed by others similarly situated; and
- (7) Granting the major waiver would not result in allowing a sign that interferes with road or highway visibility, nor obstruct or otherwise interfere with the safe and orderly movement of traffic.
